Syn. 9. 54. 3.

to it,) because he shal not purge or driue away the naturall humours. &c.

¶ But the great Astronomer & Mathematicke John Stoc ler sayes, which do agree with me that euery man (which will preserue hym selfe in health) shal open euery yeare the Mediana, in may, and it shall preserue hym ỹ whol summer frõ deseases. Likwyse he shal take a stronge purgation in the beginning of ỹ winter, to be pre-

 serued

For the Calendar cut
of the set in
SSS. 34. 23
of the year 1597.

1103. '68

Syn. 9.54.3.

to it,) because he shal not purge or driue away the naturall humours. &c.

¶ But the great Astronomer & Mathematicke John Stoffler sayes, which do agre with me that euery man (which will preserue hym selfe in health) shal open euery yeare the Mediana, in may, and it shall preserue hym ꝯ whol summer frō deseases. likwyse he shal take a stronge purgation in the beginning of ꝯ winter, to be pre-

 serued

ſerued for diſeaſes theſame winter. Again he forbydeth that no man ſhal meddel with purgations. iii. or. iiii. dayes before and after the dogdayes becauſe that the ſame time is extreme hoat. &c.

and also shall continue euery weke with rayne, and darkenes.

✣ Of the spring time ỹ secõd part of the yeare.

Spring time shall begin this yeare, in the equinoctial time which shal be, the x. day of march, at xii. a cloke. xlvi. minutes, and xxxii. secondes at none with the influẽce of ỹ mone in capricorne in ỹ xxv. degrees, this spring time shal beginne with colde winde, and darke wether, sumetime

raine

rayne, it shall so continue vntil the new mon in April, which is ỹ xiiii. day in April, and shal finisshe ẅ much wind.

¶ Of the summer the thirde part of the yeare.

The summer begineth whē the sonne entreth in cancro, ỹ is to saye, vpon the xii. daye of June, with the influence of ỹ newmone in gemini we shal haue het sam daye, hoat, rayne with weast wind, this yeare shal be a very faire summer which shal abolid i mani-